

A trip into the history of dentistry

Our experts will take you and all those who want to join them on a trip into the infinite expanses of history, treading on the paths of the knowledge of past generations - last but not least also to draw lessons for the present and the future: What is our future today will be present of tomorrow and history on the day after. A good knowledge of our past can be used for the benefit of everybody and serve as the basis of future progress.
